WITH TONKA'S AID

By Honore Willsie

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas

Barbara wandered about the great pleasant room restlessly. She liked the huge fireplace, with whips and rifles above the mantel. The couches, with the fur robes tossed across them and the long study table in the middle of the room, heaped with magazines and a varied collection of pipes, made her forget that the nearest human habitation was fifteen miles across the plains.

She paused at one of the windows, snubbing her nose against the pane like a child, and looked out over the brown, dusty plains toward the mountains. This visit to her bachelor brother was suddenly proving lonely, since he had forbidden her her daily ride because of threatening snow. Until today everything on the ranch had been so new and strange to this eastern girl that she had forgotten to be homesick.

"The sun is shining!" she exclaimed aloud to the empty room. "It is only that funny hazy ring around it that keeps it from being really bright. Richard is so silly and funny over me, like a hen with one chick. What is a snowstorm, anyhow, but fun? I'm going to take Tonka out for just a little while."

"Me no like missy glo," he said. "Weather velly bad." Then, with an indescribable gesture not unmixed with disdain, he calmly washed his hands of the matter and went on with his pie making.

Barbara found the stables deserted but Tonka nosed her softly with welcome in her great eyes, and pony and girl swung eagerly out beyond the corral to the open plain. Barbara shivered a good deal at first. The air lacked that clear, invigorating quality that had hitherto made riding a delight. There was a raw wind rising that penetrated her heavy habit.

"We won't go far today, Tonka," she said, with chattering teeth—"just the five miles out to the irrigating gate and back again."

The murky ring about the sun grew thicker and thicker until the sun was a mere pale yellow dinner plate resting on a gray blanket. The wind began to sting Barbara's face unpleasantly.

"Oh, dear," she said, "this isn't any fun! It's so hazy I can't see the ditch and"—she turned in the saddle and looked about in a puzzled way—"I can't see the ranch house either. Why—why, Tonka, where are we?"

She looked up into the sky, but during her short moment of uncertainty the sun had become totally obscured, and as she looked fine, driving particles of snow pelted her face. Tonka shook her head stubbornly and started off abruptly, but Barbara pulled her in. "Silly thing," she said. "I don't want to go to the irrigating ditch. We must get home as soon as ever we can."

But Tonka had ideas of her own on the subject. As Barbara pulled on the rein she shook her head again and started to back.

With the aid of the whip she finally persuaded Tonka to turn, and they started off in the teeth of the wind. The drive of the snow was so heavy that Barbara could not see a horse's length in front of her. The cold was so intense that she felt as if her face were being seared, and she began to be frightened.

"It must be a blizzard," she thought. "Richard will be frantic."

For half an hour Tonka struggled through the blinding storm, while the frightened girl on her back clung to the reins with numbing hands and urged her on. As the cold grew unbearable Barbara pulled the pony in and dismounted.

"I've got to walk," she thought, "or freeze to the saddle."

With the reins on her arm, she plunged on, her heart sinking more and more. "We are lost, Tonka," she said, "lost in one of those terrible blizzards!" She stopped to breathe and to pound her aching hands against the pony's side.

Suddenly Tonka lifted her head with a shrill whinny, which was answered from out the storm by another whinny. Barbara looked about eagerly. "Is it only a stray pony," she thought, "or is some one looking for me?"

"I'm lost!" called Barbara.

"This is awful," answered the man, his face tense. "You poor child! Why on earth did your brother let you out on such a day? I—I shall call him to account for this. And I am of no use! This is my first experience with an American blizzard. I, too, am lost!"

Barbara's heart sank. Her month's acquaintance with the young Englishman, who was their nearest neighbor and who during her visit had ridden the fifteen miles regularly three times a week, had inspired her with a profound faith in his capabilities. As he owned himself lost, she unconsciously moved a little closer to his stalwart figure. The man pulled off his fur coat and in spite of her protestations wrapped it about her shivering little figure.

"First," he said, "you will put that on."

"No, I won't!" she cried.

"Oh, yes, you will!" he shouted, buttoning it firmly under her chin. Barbara changed the subject.

"It's lucky I didn't let Tonka carry me on to the ditch," she called. "She almost refused to turn. I really got mixed up with her backing and turning."

The Englishman pondered for a moment. "Oh, I say," he shouted, "that's too bad. You are the one that probably got mixed up. Those Indian ponies always head for home, they say, as soon as a blizzard strikes them. My horse didn't know enough. But wait. Give Tonka her head and see what she does. I'm afraid we'll have to walk or freeze."

With the horses on either side of them they started out, Tonka, without a moment's hesitation, taking the lead. It was a terrible journey. In spite of Ingraham's assistance, Barbara constantly stumbled and fell. Without the protection of his fur coat he could only fight hopelessly against the numbing cold that assailed him, his heart aching over the misery of the girl who depended on him so pathetically, but Tonka, with drooping head, plodded slowly on.

As Barbara, assisted to her feet for the hundredth time, dimly concluded that it would be better to lie still than to struggle against the fearful cold, Tonka gave a glad whinny and stood still. They were standing before the stable door!

That evening after the two had recovered somewhat from ice baths and hot blankets and Richard had left them alone for a few moments Ingraham looked across the fire to the girl's sweet, pale face. All the love that he had so bravely suppressed during their terrible journey welled to his voice.

"Miss Barbara, Barbara," he said hesitatingly, "I'm glad it happened."

Barbara looked up.

"I hadn't much hope before," he went on, "but now, somehow, you seem to belong to me a little."

Barbara's pallor disappeared. "It wasn't such a bad storm in some ways," she said.

Half of His Fee.

John had the name of being the jolliest man in town. But tonight, which was apparently the worst night in the year, even John wore a long face, and as he swung his cab door open for the minister to enter John's doleful expression was so noticeable that the minister inquired if he were thinking about the work of cleaning off the mud in the morning.

"No, it is not the work that I'm thinking of. If I could make as much as you this evening I wouldn't mind it a bit."

"Well," replied the minister, "I am to marry a couple this evening, and I'll give you half of my fee for driving me out and back."

"It is a deal," replied John.

After an hour of dreary driving through cold and rain John drew up in front of a small house in which the service was to take place. It was two long hours of cold waiting before the minister re-entered the cab, and the home drive was made. With a spirit of expectancy John once more swung open the cab door in front of the minister's house. The minister stepped out, and as he entered his own door he turned and said:

Sugar.

Sugar, the modern commodity, which we class among the indispensable necessaries, was wholly unknown to the ancient nations. The word "saccharum" occurs but once in the Latin translation of the Bible, and the equivalent for our word "sugar" is first used by Pliny, whose writings are almost contemporaneous with the ministry of Christ. He calls it "honey collected in (from) reeds" and says that the Romans first became acquainted with its use in Arabia Felix. Statius in his account of the old Saturnalia ceremonies mentions "vegetable honey" as being used and winds up his account by saying that "this same honey is boiled from Elosian reeds." Dioscorides, the Greek physician who flourished in the first or second century of the Christian era and whose great work, "De Materia Medica," treats of all the then known medicinal substances and their properties, says that "the name of sugar has been given to the honey which is produced by reeds without bees," and Strabo, writing concerning it, says, "They (the people of Arabia Felix) make honey without bees from reeds, and it sometimes resembles salt."

Hog Tried For Murder.

Anent strange cases, a lawyer said that a hog had been tried for murder, convicted and hanged. "At Clarmont-Avin, in France," he said, "a huge hog killed and ate a child. The people, horror stricken, treated the hog as they would have treated a human being. They tried it."

He took down a book bound in gray calf.

"Here is the verdict," he said, "the original of which is kept in the National museum of Paris. It is dated June 14, 1494, and it reads:

"'We, the jury, in detestation and horror of this crime and in order to make an example and to satisfy justice have declared, judged, sentenced, pronounced and appointed that the said hog now detained in the abbeys as a prisoner shall by the executioner be hung and strangled on a gibbet near the gallows of the monk. In witness whereof we have sealed this present with our seals.'"—Minneapolis Journal.

DON'T CODDLE YOURSELF.

Fussiness About Health Does More Harm Than Good.

When one thinks of the newfangled ideas about health and sees people on every hand hunting for disease germs in water, milk, meat, fruit and the atmosphere, analyzing everything, dreading swallowing and in constant fear with every mouthful they eat, one almost wonders whether or not life is worth living. If we are liable to be made the victims of tens of thousands of enemies which are in and around everything, in all liquids and all solids alike, we are in just about the same condition to enjoy life as was one of the olden kings who lived in mortal terror that everybody was trying to poison him. All his foods and drinks, everything, had to be tasted and tested by some trusted member of his household before he dared to touch it himself.

If there is a pitiful object in the world it is a person who has become finical about his health, who lives in terror of germs and must examine and analyze everything he eats or drinks, looking for infection.

It is an insult to one's Creator to go through life whining, complaining and fearing, in morbid terror that a thousand enemies are combined to rob one of comfort, of happiness and of health. Man was made to hold up his head, to walk erect, with boldness, fearlessness and confidence.—Success.

PINEAPPLES.

The Way They Grow and How the Plants Reproduce.

Pineapples do not grow on trees. Imagine a plant four feet in extreme height from the ground to the tip of leaves. A single stalk at the surface, but dividing at once into swordlike blades or leaves, fifteen in number, from the center of which appears a stiff, upright stem, at the top of which is the fruit. This stem is short, and the crown of the fruit when fully grown is a foot or more below the points of the leaves. At the end of a year and a half from planting each plant produces a single fruit, even as a cabbage plant produces a single head. But the pineapple does not die after fruiting once. Down on the stem below the fruit and among the long, narrow leaves a sucker appears. If allowed to remain this will soon become the head of the plant, and within another year it will yield another fruit. This process may go on for a term of years. In the meantime, however, other suckers will make their appearance.

These are broken off, and when stuck into the ground they put out roots and become other plants. Thus a single pineapple plant may produce a dozen or more others while it is yielding fruit from year to year.—New York Herald.

Not For Strangers.

"What in the world does that mean?" asked the traveler through a sparsely settled region on the cape. "There's no such place on my road map."

The man whom he addressed first took a leisurely survey of the traveler and his horse and then turned his eyes toward the weather beaten sign which bore the single word "Tolpim."

"That ain't a name," he said, with dignity; "it's jest an indication. It means, 'To Long Pond one mile.'

"It's plain enough to folks from near by that's hunting for the pond, and we don't reckon on strangers taking much interest."—Youth's Companion.

Such a Waste!

"I wonder," said the man of a statistical turn, "I wonder how much powder is destroyed daily in useless salutes?"

"There must be a lot," said the frivolous girl, "but I suppose women will go on kissing each other just the same."—Stray Stories.

READ AND YOU WILL LEARN

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice endorse and recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula on the bottle wrapper is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous or harmful agents and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful ingredient in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

Question of Administration Rather than Location.

The placing of Chinatown in San Francisco seems to be occupying the attention of the authorities of that city and is agitating the people and the press at the present time. As a matter of fact no one would want to see old Chinatown restored, but that is quite impossible. A Chinatown there will be, and should it be built on the old site let there be rigid supervision of the construction of it. After the Chinamen come back to their old haunts let the authorities see that it is placed under proper surveillance of the health board and police.

The re-organization of the administration and the oiling up of the machinery of the city government will solve all such problems, otherwise evil will burrow into the heart of the city despite the location of Chinese and other aliens. A properly regulated Chinatown is a fascinating addition to San Francisco. Let us make the city larger and more beautiful with all the charm that the old cosmopolitanism gave it. Such a city as San Francisco will be has endless possibilities for the exercising of internal regulations of law and might offer grand opportunities for experimentation in ideal city government. The Mayor of such a city should feel more responsibility than that of any other in the country. If we are to have a greater city and a more beautiful city and the old cosmopolitanism too, there are many complex problems therein to confront the men who will hold the reins of government. Let the thoughts of the men of brains be directed to administration rather than to location.

Lessons for the World in Disaster.

Terrible calamities such as the San Frangisco fire cause the wheels of evolution to revolve. What devices we have to-day for protection and preservation are the result of just such happenings. Experience is a dear teacher, but it certainly does teach and the world learns its lessons and profits thereby. Inventive builders will now study new types of buildings, and the structures which best stood the ordeal in San Francisco will be patterned after throughout the big cities of the world. There will not only be evolution in the matter of building, but also in the fire-fighting system. All the defects of San Francisco's fire-fighting facilities were evident and will be remedied.

Another thing that the present crisis is bringing out is the faculty of handling the people and affairs at this critical time. San Francisco is profiting by Chicago's and Galveston's experience, but she is also working out many problems for herself which in the future will be exceedingly valuable to cities in similar straits.

In the matter of feeding the people much good judgment has been used. At first necessity made it compulsory to be rather lavish in giving food lest some one suffer. From this extreme the authorities finally dropped into the routine of the bread-line plan, but as time went on and many left the city, while others secured work, this plan did not fairly fit the situation. The newest idea of cheap kitchens is excellent. It will make men more self-reliant and more self-respecting. It will tend to bring conditions of living more normally economic.

Congressman D. E. McKinlay took great interest in the situation at Santa Rosa and his flying trip across the continent to look into matters here and report them to congress will probably lead to a substantial and prompt appropriation for the new federal building—the Postoffice at our county seat. McKinlay set forth Santa Rosa's situation with true and telling effect and said that in his opinion nothing would give more of an impetus to the restoration of the city than for the government to make an $100,000 appropriation that the building might be begun at once as a nucleus for the new Santa Rosa and a good example to local builders.

The hop crop in this valley for this season will be very heavy and no doubt will result in more of our farmers going into the hop growing industry.

A fox terrior was recently operated on for throat trouble at a cost of $600. He probably growled, but not at the bill.

Awarded Contract to Sprinkle Streets

At an adjourned meeting of the City Trustees Saturday night, bids were received for street sprinkling. The successful bidder was L. Maffei, who agrees to do the work for $2.49 per day. The sprinkling is done under the supervision of the the street committee and Maffei works a stipulated number of hours putting on all the water he can within that time.

In regard to the City Hall it was decided that no steps could be legally taken until after the present declared holiday is over.

"A Working Church" will be the topic discussed by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Cragin, in the Congregational church to morrow (Sunday) morning. Rev. Mr. Rowe of the M. E. church will occupy the pulpit in the evening, the occasion being the monthly union service.

LUCKY ABSENCE WARDS OFF DEATH

Mrs. Wicker, Who Was in Sonoma Probably Escaped Awful Fate in San Francisco's Earthquake.

Mrs. Minnie Wicker, a sister of Otto and Miss Louisa Rufus, probably escaped an awful fate in San Francisco's earthquake by being in Sonoma at the time of the calamity. Her San Francisco home in the Strathmore apartment house was terribly wrecked by the earthquake. The entire front of the big brick structure fell out and a ton of brick fell into the room and on the bed which Mrs. Wicker would have occupied had she been at home.

She lost much valuable bric-a-brac and all her elegant furniture in the fire which later swept the place. Mr. Wicker also lost his large restaurant business.

Not a single suit has been commenced in the Superior Court of this county since the earthquake. The legal holidays and the agreement of the members of the bar at the time of the calamity have been responsible for this.

A carload of provisions, etc., from Burlington, Ia., arrived in Santa Rosa Wednesday for the relief headquarters. The car bore a banner stating that the contents were a gift of the Burlington people to the needy of California.

He was given the jewelry and now denies having it. The dead woman's husband had him arrested.

The Board of Supervisors at its recent session abolished the office of County Horticultural Commissioner, to take effect June 1st. The display in the State Board of Trade rooms will also be discontinued on July 1st. SAVED BY COURAGE.

An Exciting Adventure With a Maori Chieftain.

Mr. Becke, the author of "Notes From My South Sea Log," tells of his tutor, who seemed to him the most heroic man in the world because he had been through the first Maori war and because of an adventure which there befell him, and which is given as follows:

Poor Guy—such was the tutor's name—was a lieutenant, and he and two companies were captured by the Maoris. They were taken inside the stockade, and the chief, taking up one of the captured seamen's cutlasses, felt its edge and then fixed his keen eyes on the young officer's face.

"I shall not harm these two men of yours," he said slowly. "They shall go safely back to your lines if"— He paused, and a grim smile distorted his tattooed face.

"If what?" asked Guy calmly.

"If you will stretch out your right hand so that I may cut it off at the wrist swiftly, no further harm shall come to you, and you, too, shall go free."

"Will you keep your word?"

"Aye. I, Te Atua Wera, am no liar."

"Strike," he said.

The chief again smiled. "Thou art as cunning as thou art brave. I said the right hand."

Guy let fall his left and extended his right arm. Te Atua Wera stepped back a pace, raised the cutlass—and struck the point of it into the ground. Then he bent forward and gravely rubbed noses with Guy.

"Go," he said, "but come back no more." So Guy and the two sailors were allowed to return to Despard's lines unharmed.

SHORT LIVED DOCTORS.

Diseases Which Are Most Deadly to the Medical Profession.

The diseases which claim the most victims among physicians relatively to all males are gout and diabetes, and there is a high relative mortality from diseases of the nervous system, circulatory system and kidneys, says the Scientific American.

From the nature of his habits the physician is not subject to accidents, and, though he is brought into contact with infection to a greater extent than other men, his preventive means are successful and his mortality from infection is very low. Freedom from prolonged muscular strains and high blood tension apparently saves him from arteriosclerosis, but suicide claims many and so do the drug habits acquired by the nervously exhausted. It has been said that three-fourths of French morphine users are physicians.

The cause of the physician's early death is evidently the excessive nervous expenditure, insufficient rest and defective nutrition, inseparable from his calling, with its broken and restricted sleep, irregular hours of work, rest and meals and worry when lives depend upon his judgment and the lack of a day of complete relaxation in each week. The physician who sees his patients every day in the week, month after month, and cannot learn to forget them when he goes home merely burns the candle at both ends. He violates the law observed by every animal, that there shall be short periods of moderate exertion interrupted by longer periods of rest when repairs are made. It is not too much work as a rule, but scattered work, which prevents rest.

Long Speeches.

Much merriment has been caused by the discovery that in the Egyptian "Book of the Dead" an ancient declared he had "not inflicted long lectures" on his hearers, but this is curiously matched by a plea for his soul uttered by Hugh Grove (Loyalist) at his execution May 16, 1665 (Vol. 3, Thurloe's Collections): "Good people, I was never guilty of much rhetorick, nor ever loved long speeches in my life, therfore you cannot expect either of them at my death. All I desire is your hearty prayers for my soul," etc.

In view of the Egyptian discovery this seems a very close second for England.—London Notes and Queries.

Our First Coins.

The first coins really deserving the name of United States coinage were struck off as "pattern pieces" by Benjamin Dudley at the instigation of Robert Morris and were laid before congress in 1783 as specimens of what the coinage should be. They were a "mark" and a "quint" and thus described: The "mark"—obverse; an eye, the center of a glory, 13 points cross equidistant a circle of as many stars. The "quint" is similar in design, the value on reverse being noted.

Cure For Hypochondria.

A young lady of Cardiff who fancied she was ailing went to the surgery of the family doctor and commenced the interview with, "Doctor, I'm dying." "Oh, indeed, I can recommend a very respectable undertaker," blandly responded the doctor. She felt quite well after that.—Cardiff Mail.

Our Surroundings.

Even the strongest of us are not beyond the reach of our environment. No matter how independent, strong-willed and determined our nature, we are constantly being modified by our surroundings.—Success Magazine.

Everything Returned.

"Are you beginning to get any returns from your literary work?"

"Yes, indeed. I'm not getting anything else."—Kansas City Times.

FIRST CARRIAGE IN MAINE.

How a Minister Came to Buy It and Why He Sold It.

The Rev. Francis Winter was a native of Boston and a graduate of Harvard college. He went to Bath early in 1767 and, after preaching on probation for the orthodox church, was invited to settle, which invitation he accepted. He was ordained in the autumn of the same year. He went to Bath on horseback in company with Lemuel Standish. Mr. Winter came from Boston, where he had associated with such eminent men as Adams, Otis and Warren, himself becoming an ardent patriot, taking the lead in the Revolutionary measures adopted in Bath during that memorable period.

Mr. Winter married Miss Abigail Alden in 1768, and it is through her that the Winters of today trace their ancestry back to the "Puritan Maiden of Plymouth."

Three years after the marriage of the Rev. Francis Winter and Abigail Alden they started to visit a sister of Mrs. Winter living in Connecticut and intended to ride all the way on horseback, but Mrs. Winter became so fatigued that Mr. Winter sold one of the horses for a carriage and harness. It was the first carriage that ever came into Maine and was called a chaise. Traveling was so difficult that two negroes were employed to accompany them with shovels and axes to clear the road. Several times the chaise had to be taken apart and lifted over fallen trees. The minister's parishioners thought that it was putting on too much style for their pastor to ride in a carriage, and in consequence Mr. Winter sold it. This was in 1771. It was a two wheeled chaise, the body resting on leather braces, which were attached to wooden springs.—Lewiston Journal.

Do You Love

your baby? You wonder why he cries. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he will never cry. Most babies have worms, and the mothers don't know it. White's Cream Vermifuge rids the child of worms and cleans out its system in a pleasant way. Every mother should keep a bottle of this medicine in the house. With it, fear need never enter her mind. Price 25c.

A Poisonous Frog.

People in general look upon all species of the frog as being perfectly harmless. Should you be traveling in New Granada (United States of Colombia), however, you would do well to let a certain little tree croaker severely alone. He secretes a poison equally as deadly as that of the rattlesnake. It exudes from his skin in the shape of a milky liquid and is used by the natives as a poison for their arrows.

If You Don't

Mr. C. of Emory, Texas, writes: "My wife has been using Herbine for herself and children for five years. It is a sure cure for constipation and malaria fever, which is substantiated by what it has done for my family."

A DAZZLING EFFECT.

Old Time Illumination With Lanterns and Candles.

In these days of electric lights, with all their capabilities for brilliant illumination, it is amusing to read what the subjects of George II. considered a dazzling effect. A Frenchman visiting in London at the time of the coronation of that monarch in 1727 writes enthusiastically in praise of the lighting of the city as well as of a banquet display.

"Most of the streets," writes M. Saussure, "are wonderfully well lighted. In front of each house hangs a lantern, or large globe of glass, inside of which is placed a lamp which burns all night. Large houses have two of these suspended outside the doors by iron supports. Some even have four."

How one are light would have dazzled the good people of that day!

"When the coronation procession entered Westminster hall," the writer continues, "the light of day was beginning to fade. Forty chandeliers, in shape like a crown, hung from the ceiling, each having thirty-six wax candles.

"On the king's appearance all suddenly lighted, and every one in the room was filled with astonishment at the wonderful and unexpected illumination. Little cords of cotton wool, imperceptible to the eye, saturated with sulphur of saltpeter, spirits of wine and other ingredients, had been prepared and arranged so as to carry the flame rapidly from one candle to another. The arrangement had been so skillfully prepared that scarcely a candle failed to take fire."

Not If as Rich as Rockefeller

If you had all the wealth of Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate, you could not buy a better medicine for bowel complaints than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The most eminent physician can not prescribe a better preparation for colic and diarrhoea, both for children and adults. The uniform success of this remedy has shown it to be superior to all others. It never fails and when reduced with water and sweetened, is pleasant to take. Every family should be supplied with it.

The wonderful success that has met Ballard's Horehound Syrup in its crusade on Coughs, Influenza, Bronchitis and all Pulmonary troubles—has started the public to thinking of this wonderful preparation. They are all using it. Join the procession and down with sickness. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00.

BLOODLETTING.

It Is Still Resorted to by Doctors In Certain Emergencies.

Bloodletting, or "venesection," as it is known scientifically, was once the common remedy for nearly every form of ailment. Washington died of it, in the opinion of modern medical authorities, and soon after his time there was a reaction against venesection. Better medicinal agents accomplished whatever benefits were attributed to this heroic treatment, and a better knowledge of physiology condemned the practice.

Venesection, however, is still employed in certain emergencies by the most advanced practitioners. A German physician has made an extensive study of the subject, with clinical experiments, and reaches the conclusion that in certain cases where the heart and lungs are engorged with blood venesection is permissible because of the speedy relief it gives, often after other resources have failed.

Deadly toxins are also present in the blood in some diseases, and venesection reduces them. The lost fluid is replaced with an injection of salt solution. Bloodletting affords relief to the livid sufferer from a distended heart when every breath is a struggle, but its use has been reduced to an exact science, and it is regarded in medicine as a final resort for giving ease in a comparatively restricted group of ailments. The days when it was a cure-all, administered by the corner barber as well as every physician, have disappeared into the past.—New York Press.

Sciatica Cured After Twenty Years Torture.

For more than twenty years Mr. J. B. Massey of 3322 Clinton st., Minneapolis, Minn., was tortured by sciatica. The pain and suffering which he endured during this time is beyond comprehension. Nothing gave him permanent relief until he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application of that liniment relieved the pain and made sleep and rest possible, and less than one bottle has effected a permanent cure. Mr. Massey relates his experience for the benefit of others who may be similarly afflicted. If troubled with sciatica or rheumatism why not try a 25-cent bottle of Pain Balm and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain.

Wouldn't Trust Him.

I recommend it for pains in the chest."

It is Dangerous to Neglect a Cold

How often do we hear it remarked: "It's only a cold,' and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this this most common ailment. It cures and is plesant to take. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

For Dosing Oneself.

A physician recommends rochelle salts for amateur doctoring. He says that it is an excellent thing, several times a day, to take as much of the salts as may be put on a cent in a little water. That will sweeten the stomach and act as a very desirable spring medicine. He also speaks highly of soda, having no patience with those timid people who have an idea that it is a dangerous dose, doing some vague harm to the coating of the intestines.

"Why, everything we eat, almost, has soda in it," he cried in disdain. "It is an admirable thing to take half rochelle salts and half bicarbonate of soda, as directed, several times a day. I know of few gentler and still more beneficent general medicines."

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is so agreeable and so natural you can hardly realize that it is produced by a medicine. These tablet also cure indigestion and biliousness. Price 25 cents. Samples free at Simmon's drug store.

Stock in a Big Mail Order House

Six per Cent Earnings Guaranteed

And Enables You to Buy Anything for Home, Yourself or Family, at Same Price Your Local Dealer Pays

Price of Stock Will soon Be Advanced

Act Quickly

Look out for that "rainy day!"

It comes sooner or later for so many—we can't tell to-day who may want on the morrow.

Prepare now while you are able for any misfortune that may overtake you. Don't run any risks.

Here is something that will help you provide for the rainy day—an investment that carries with it unusual benefits and proves its value from the minute you buy the stock.

Smith's Cash Store is well and favorably known all over the West. Its reputation is of the best and in volume of business it is making tremendous strides forward every year. Some five years ago the stock was selling for $5.00 a share. Today the price is $10.00 a share. These figures demonstrate what a thriving institution is this biggest Mail Order House on the Pacific Coast.

Each share of stock is guaranteed to earn 6 per cent a year. But the greatest benefit is derived by the stockholder from the discounts given to the holders of five or more shares of stock. You can buy anything to eat, use or wear at the same price the goods would cost your local dealers. We call them "Owner's Prices."

Suppose you buy goods that altogether cost $50 at our wholesale rate. If you are a stockholder you get a discount amounting to $2.50, and your bill is only $47.50. The saving you will make in one year in addition to the earnings will in all probability more than cover the investment.

Year after year you will be effecting big savings. But should hard times knock at your door—and you must not be too sure that something of that sort will not happen—think what it will mean to you to be able to buy everything at cost prices. It might be the very thing that would help you to survive the period of distress.

We are increasing the amount of our capital stock. We are telling you about the stock because we think you ought to invest for your own sake. You couldn't buy stock in any other concern that would pay you so well.

It will not be long before the price of the stock is advanced. You know that means there are not many days remaining in which you can take advantage of this great offer.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you ought to fill out—it does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
